

I'm having a "Cleaning-Out-the-Vault" sale!

Oct. 27, 2012 Update: If you couldn't make it today, you can still see things during regular Studio hours (Thursday-Friday-Saturday).

I still have some treasures I discovered in the vault and the workspace out back. Items for sale include:

- Paintings
- Small antiques
- Pillows
- Art studio equipment
- Plastics
- Objects of great potential

So much to sell we had to put some of it outside on cleanup day! (Thanks, Betsy and John!) → ← Emptying out the patio – and the pink workspace – you can even see the (painted-on) "cobblestones" now! I have a kiln to sell, a slab roller, a slumping oven... at the end of the month most of the watercolors will go to shows in several different cities, so stop in soon for the best selection!

Coming up November 3, 2012: (note updated time!)

Exhibit of new artwork from the latest Studio classes

Meet the artists and view their sketchbooks and watercolor exercises at a special display on Saturday, November 3, from 10 a.m.-noon at The Left Bank Studio. Pictured: Drawing and Composition class members learning composition, value, and texture techniques (using pencil) which they can later use in watercolor painting.

New
classes
start
Nov. 15!

Simplifying the “bank” will help people visualize what the building could be for them. Once things are cleared out, I'll bring in the painted furniture – stools, chairs, tables, piano bar – to suggest how the space can be used (possibly a new business to complement JB Knacker?).

A plethora of artifacts from 30+ years of being an artist

The wonderful curved, solid wood legs on this desk inspired my painting of the young girl reading. Has one drawer and shelf below. Would make a great computer table!

This wild cabinet was made to be a TV stand, with cupboard underneath and a shelf for the VCR. Decorated with a genuine Gilbert tiger!

When repurposing a piano, you need to follow the curves! Wine bar/kitchen table with fold-away tabletop (piano lid) and three drawers underneath
