In the garden of life, everyone needs tending. We wish for each flower to bloom as it grows.

Strains of music can be heard on a gentle breeze from each room bringing hope to those in need.

The scent of flowers offers spiritual growth. Feeling the pulse of life is a form of gratitude.

Upon reflection, life is filled with both movement and stillness. As we rejuvenate, we can feel and hear the stillness.

This is a home filled with happiness and love. The community who dwells within is on the road to radiance.

Expressing oneself is transformative. Life is joyful when we discover our passions and reignite the flames.

Soothing hands can be therapeutic while performing daily chores. This barn houses many animals who are able to assist in renewing the spirit.

The porch of this home provides comfortable chairs and a swing. A nearby church suggests a Spiritual connection between all members of this community.

Planning daily tasks allows those who are being refreshed to witness abundance of nature surrounding them.
